OUR BRAND

A practical guide to how Northbeam Cloud communicates and presents itself.

Brand Voice

Northbeam Cloud speaks in a professional, plain voice. In B2B channels, keep the language direct: avoid slang and exclamation-mark hype.

How the voice should sound

- Use clear, plain wording rather than slang.
- Keep B2B copy professional and avoid exclamation-mark hype.
- Speak to the customer as “you”. In marketing copy, avoid referring to the audience as “users”.
- Lead with the customer benefit: files in step across devices. Then introduce the feature.

VOICE EXAMPLE

“It keeps your files in step.”

Writing Style

Write so the customer benefit is easy to understand before the reader reaches the feature detail.

Writing principles

- Put the benefit first: files in step across devices. Follow with the feature that supports it.
- Address the reader as “you”; use “your team” where a team reference is needed.
- Keep B2B language professional and plain.
- Avoid slang and exclamation-mark hype.
- Check every number in public copy against an approved fact before publication.

Examples

USE	AVOID
“It keeps your files in step.”	“Insane deal!!!”
“your team”	“our users”

Claims and Legal Language

Public claims must match the approved facts. Do not turn a feature or service level into a broader promise.

Claim rules

- Every number in public copy (uptime, customers, savings, speed) must match an approved fact.
- Do not describe service levels as guaranteed; refer to the SLA.
- Do not call Northbeam the best, #1 or market leader unless an approved fact supports it.
- Do not claim legal compliance (GDPR, DPDP, HIPAA). Describe the security feature instead.

Approved public facts

- Northbeam Sync is used by teams in 14 countries.
- Northbeam Sync SLA: 99.9% monthly uptime.
- Files are encrypted at rest with AES-256.
- Northbeam Vault starts at INR 599 per month.

For service-level wording, use “backed by our SLA”. For security wording, use “data encrypted at rest with AES-256”.
